2. Fill out a few fields with basic information to create your Adobe ID (which will be your Behance login)
3. Follow some suggest users to start building up your Activity Feed with great work.

4. Create a Behance URL of your choice (this will be the URL for your portfolio), and select your location (so that your account will be easy to find by people browsing the Behance platform).
5. To set up or make changes to your profile, go to the My Portfolio Tab, and click "Edit Profile".

6. To post a Project to Behance, click the blue "add work" button, then choose "add project." If you're not able to see this button, please zoom out on your browser or click the button stack on the left -- you'll see a different Add Work Button there.
7. Begin uploading your content. Click "upload files" to select which files you'd like to add.
8. To add more content, use the "Add Media" box on the left hand column to upload files, embed media, add text, or add files from your Creative Cloud account.

Put your mouse on a piece of media to: Reorder, mark it as "For Sale," Add a Caption, Replace, or Trash it.
9. Use the "Customize Design" box on the left hand column to adjust your Dividers & Spacing, or customize your Background. Note that you cannot have individual dividers - they will be standard between each image.

10. When you're satisfied, click "Save" and "Continue." You'll be directed to upload a cover image, crop the image and move on to the "Settings" section.
11. Continue to Settings. Here, you'll choose Creative Fields, add project Tags, and a Project Description. You'll have the option to adjust project privacy, Copyright Settings, add Tools, or link to a WIP (Work in Progress).

12. Click Publish. After publishing, you'll have the option to share with social networks for added exposure.

13. To link your Behance profile to the SAIC network, go to saic.edu and click "View Work" in the upper menu.
Then select "Portfolios."

On the Portfolios page, click "Sign up & Showcase Your Work" in the upper right hand corner.

Then select "Yes" to indicate that you have a Behance account, and login using your Behance username and password.
