

The Office of the Dean of Faculty invites applications for tenured associate professors to be considered for promotion to the rank of full professor at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, effective fall of 2019.

Nominations may be initiated through departmental recommendation or self-nomination. In previous years there has been a limit on the number of full professor promotions available in a given year. We are pleased to inform you that those limits have been eliminated.

Applicant materials are reviewed by members of the Full Professor Review Committee, composed of seven appointed faculty: six full professors on staggered, two-year terms and one adjunct full professor on a one-year term (applications for promotion to adjunct full professor are reviewed by this committee as well). The Chair of the committee transmits the committee recommendations to the Dean of Faculty who then reviews the potential promotions with the Provost and the President. Their recommendation is reviewed and finalized by the Board of Governors.

Consideration for promotion is reserved for faculty members who meet all of the qualifications of Associate Professor, have achieved a significant reputation (national or international) in their field, and can be described as significantly accomplished "Master" teachers.

Please review the procedural guidelines for full professor promotion from the Faculty Handbook and Faculty Handbook Supplement, available for download from the Faculty Dashboard and summarized below:

Also, note that in 2018-19 and going forward, faculty will not be eligible to apply for a merit raise in the same year that an application for a promotion is submitted.
