this graphic displays the correlation between the voters’ adherence to group norms and their potency to influence politics in five demographic categories, and according to party affiliation. The correlations are explored in four quadrants. Multiple miniature graphics derived from the main graphic highlight and explain significant results of this survey.